Part II-Written Statement of Reasons for Detention

I find that the credible testimony and information submitted at the hearing establishes by clear and convincing evidence a preponderance of the evidence: Defendant is charged with felon in possession of a firearm in violation of 18 USC §§ 922 & 924. Defendant was found in possession of a stolen firearm which he claims that he purchased. Although defendant was probably no the individual involved in the shooting incident in December 2007, that does not explain why he had a firearm on his person on the evening of February 9. Defendant was given his miranda warnings before he made any admissions, but not before he was patted down. Defendant's history shows are follows: defendant terminated employment as a cook in January 2008, a job that he held for 3 years to pursue a record career as a rap artist. Defendant's criminal history is as follows: 1994 & 1997 found delinquent on assault 3d; convicted on possession a destructive weapon in 1999 for which he was found VOP on 3 occassions. Convicted of aggravated menancing in 2000 for which he was found in VOP three times. Convicted on conspiracy 2d in 2005. His recent past history shows a pattern of non-compliance while under supervisor. He has prior convictions for weapon possession, assault and menancing (crimes of violence). As a result there are no conditions or combination thereof that will reasonably assure defendant's appearance as required and the safety of the community.

Part III—Directions Regarding Detention

The defendant is committed to the custody of the Attorney General or his designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal. The defendant shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity for private consultation with defense counsel. On order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility shall deliver the defendant to the United States marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with a court proceeding.
